

COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

Working Together
to Advance Healing
and Wellbeing

Activities Since 2013 - Highlights

Developed and launched a community bulletin, OUTLOOK, now in its eighth edition, and its short digital companion, OUTLOOK Shorts, to facilitate dialogue and showcase individual initiatives and IFS-related developments and activities of interest to the community.

Conducted two community surveys with the intent to listen and endeavored, in response, to address shared issues and concerns shared by respondents.

Responded to numerous ideas from the community for pushing the boundaries of IFS and provided—and will continue, as a matter of practice, to provide—appropriate intellectual space and opportunities to explore them further and help bringing them to fruition as pertinent.

Moving Forward – Deeper Engagement

Launch the Foundation Ambassadors Program as a vehicle for building a grassroots movement at the local level. Ambassadors are invited and selected based on their passion for the vision of bringing IFS to the world, their interest in IFS-community organizing in their own locale, and their willingness to represent their geographical or professional area vis-à-vis the work of the Foundation. Ambassadors have full leeway in terms of how to engage and stimulate local interest. They will be invited to participate in quarterly online conversations hosted by the Foundation.

Develop the IFS Healing Corps, a group of volunteer IFS practitioners interested in (a) lending a hand to communities in need, be it on site or remotely in response to a natural disaster or human-caused crisis; and/or (b) providing clinical support to veterans in various settings, in partnership with military veteran organizations.

Interested? Please let the Foundation know.
Send a note to: Outreach@FoundationIFS.org

FOUNDATION for
SELF LEADERSHIP
Supporting IFS Research, Education & Advocacy